

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of derivatising a hydrogel such as cross-linked polyvinylalcohol hydrogel comprises reducing the level of encapsulated water in the hydrogel and treating the material with a derivatisation means which comprise an active material such as an amino acid, peptide or protein. The polymeric material prepared may be used in "smart" dressings.